Knights Have Site Approval

Andover Council 1078, Knights of Columbus, has received permission to locate its club on Osgood st.

Board of Appeals returned favorable decision, based on the request.

Property fronts on Osgood bounded by Frontage st. and 93. It includes six acres, 50 feet of frontage on Osgood giving an affirmative decision. The Appeals Board flatly stated that it could not refuse a site merely on the grounds that the Knights of Columbus' Lowell property would be better suited for a club. It was also asserted that the Board can't refuse a permit based on residents' dislike of seeing a rural area grow up.

None, the decision stated, objected to the club as being detrimental to the neighborhood - the major objection was to increased traffic.

But the Board felt that the increase could be handled adequately, based on the club's location near Route 93. And thus this objection was not sufficient to allow the Board to act against the permit.

The building proposed for the site is about 150 by 70; it would

New Sorority Begun By Group

Beta Sigma Phi is the largest Greek letter organization in the world and has chapters in the United States, Canada, England, Peru, Mexico, Austria, Germany, Japan, Saudi Arabia, and France.

This international aspect is repeated here in Andover in the fact that several of its members come from countries other than the United States. Members also come from England, Ireland, Canada and Spain. The child recently adopted is from Greece.

Recently, six new members were honored at a tea given by the Beta Mu Chapter's Sponsor, Mrs. G. Edgar Best. The six new pledges are Mrs. Joseph Adams, Mrs. Frank Gaw, Mrs. William B. Kent Jr., Mrs. David MacDonald Jr., Mrs. Frank Robinson and Mrs. Daniel Thoren. Mrs. Richard Pangonis is vice president in charge of membership and Mrs. Lester

HONORED AT PARTY - Members of the school system paid tribute to Fred Collins Tuesday night, at a dinner held at the Andover Country Club. Fred retired recently after spending a lifetime with the department, many years of it as head custodian. Here, Mr. and Mrs. Collins stop a moment for a photograph, prior to the happy event. (Cole)

Up To School Board To Select New Sites

The School Committee has the authority to select sites for schools, according to town meeting dictates.

And the Selectmen, apparently agreeing, have asked the Committee to prepare a list of specific sites it wishes to acquire.

Former Land Committee chairman Harold O. Rafton told a joint meeting of the Selectmen and School Committee that articles approved by the voters specially mentioned how sites will be chosen. He read from some articles, stating that the School Committee shall designate sites for schools, the Recreation Committee, sites for recreation, etc.

At the Monday meeting, the two boards agreed on a South Andover site of some 30 acres, owned by the Barnard family.

But still in question are two West Andover areas, where the School Committee says schools must eventually be built.

Chairman Russell G. Doyle, chairman of the Selectmen, told the School Committee to come back with specific sites in the general areas mentioned.

At that, William A. Doherty, a long-time member of the School Committee, wondered "Why do you usurp the power, when we're supposed to do the selecting?"

He referred to occasions when the School Committee has set its sights on a particular plot of land, only to have the Selectmen disagree.

Christmas Decorations Maliciously Broken

Abbot Holding Holiday Events

The days before the Christmas holiday at Abbot Academy are filled with events in the traditional Christmas program, even though mid-year examinations will be held before the vacation begins.

Last Friday afternoon, the Abbot Christian Association had its annual party for about 25 children of members of the faculty and staff of the school.

This Saturday evening, all resident and day students and faculty will gather for a Christmas dinner, followed by carol singing.

Sunday at 7:30 the Christmas Vespers will be in Davis Hall and the program will include recitations and songs by the Fidelio Society, different classes and the whole school, hymns, individual recitations and a Christmas message by Mrs. Alexander Crane, principal. The program will conclude with the singing of the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah". This program is open to the public.

The Abbot Christian Association Vesper service, conducted by the students, will be held Monday evening, and is for the school.

Architect Doing Functional Design

The "functional design of office space" is now being undertaken by architects designing the new town hall.

Town Manager Thomas E. Duff said this means placing desks, chairs and filing cabinets inside the allocated office spaces, department by department.

Then department heads will be asked to go over the plans, for comment.

Duff said he believes that the committee planning the new town hall will listen to "any valid reasons" presented by department heads, as to changes in planned office space.

Last week the Townsman carried a news story quoting three department heads as believing that space allocated to their departments is insufficient for the future.

When the town manager was asked this week whether consideration will be given to the department heads' comments, he stated that the study committee, he believes, will consider "valid"

Malicious breakage of Christmas decorations along Main st., and the apparent inability of anyone to cope with the situation, were the twin subjects of complaint to the Townsman this week.

Angry merchants point to mutilated wreaths, missing decorations, broken bulbs strewn around as evidence of malicious intent - but they have no idea when the damage is being done.

The tree in front of the town hall is a constant source of grief - bulbs are being taken as fast as they can be replaced. Many are just smashed around the base of the tree.

Wreaths, torn from in front of stores, have been mangled under foot and left in the gutter.

Lights, customarily placed outside some establishments, have been torn out and the bulbs stolen.

The Police Department, according to its chief, David L. Nicoll, is constantly on the lookout for anyone tampering with the decorations. However, the route man, it

WELFARE REIMBURSEMENT MAY BE IN DANGER

The town could lose some or all state and federal assistance in the welfare department, it was learned exclusively this week.

And also threatened is 75 percent of the cost of any new welfare office in a new town hall.

The Townsman learned that the published floor plans for the welfare office do not meet state and federal specifications; if these are not met, grants and assistance can be withheld. In addition, the allowance, covering 75 percent of the cost of the new welfare office, could be withheld.

The existing floor plan shows one large office, 28x16.6 feet. No private offices are shown. It is factual to state that privacy is required under the law, whenever a welfare interview is being held. It had been believed that at least two private offices should be included, plus the main office for clerical and waiting room purposes.

SENT TO GUAM FOR RED CROSS

Milton A. Jackson of Arlington, Va., formerly of Andover, has been sent to the island of Guam by the National Red Cross, to head the relief work going on there since the destructive storms of the late fall devastated the Island.

This is quite an honor for a former "Native Son", but was merited by Mr. Jackson for his outstanding work with the organization in Korea and during World War II.

Mr. Jackson was born in Andover and educated in the local schools. He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jackson.

Streets To Be Accepted Soon

Agreement has finally been reached, resulting in town acceptance of West Parish dr., Birch rd. and Thresher rd.

The Selectmen have only to formally accept the streets, which they probably will do at the meeting next Monday night.

A $4,200 bank book, posted by the Schlott interests with the Planning Board, has been released to the developer.

And the town has received a $1,500 check, to cover some road work in the area. This can not be done until spring.

The Selectmen agreed Monday night that acceptance of the streets would follow receipt of the check, and return of the bank book. The actual exchange was made Tuesday morning.

Troop 9 Will Hold Bake Sale

Senior Girl Scout Troop 9 will hold a bakery sale Dec. 15, beginning at 10 a.m., in the Andover Co-op.

Troop 9, the only Senior Scout Troop in Andover, is under the leadership of Miss Joan Lamprey. Girls of high school age make up the Troop membership and have many interesting projects planned for the year. Several of the members have already enjoyed a weekend camping trip at Camp Maude Eaton, while others, unable to attend the overnight, hiked to Camp Merrymeeting and enjoyed a cook-out.

Two representatives of Troop 9, Susan Stanley and Sharon Briggs, attended the program meeting recently held at Girl Scout Headquarters in Lawrence. At this meeting preliminary plans for an encampment and a conference in the spring were made. Various other activities that might bring together the troops of Greater Lawrence and Lowell were also discussed.

FUNCTIONAL DESIGN GOING FORWARD

Mr. Duff said the existing plans - printed in the Townsman as furnished by the Building Committee - are merely preliminary, as far as the interior allocation of space is concerned. The overall space provided in the structure is 22,000 square feet, he noted. But moving partitions, to change proposed offices to meet the various needs, can still be done. Mr. Duff said he believes a town hall should be sufficient for 60 years - without major renovation. Planning, he said, should keep this in mind as an objective.

One of the criticisms of the by department heads is that the provided for their work meets today's needs, and not those of the future.

Mr. Duff said the study committee, of which he is a member, established the study of the town hall, in consultation with the architect. Then the various offices were given space, based on what the committee and architect thought were their needs.

Duff described the process as one in which all department heads had a chance to tell their problems to the committee, with an architect.

The department heads have noted that the architect or members of the committee did not come to their offices and study the allocation of space for efficiency. He also said that they had not been told the eventual size of the offices until the floor plan appeared in the newspaper. He noted that original estimates provided by them for the committee covering anticipated needs had been discussed in any detail.

The architects are supposed to be at a meeting in town hall this morning, according to the manager, when they will continue putting the "functional design" paper.

MALICIOUS DAMAGE TO DECORATIONS

is explained, can not be at the ends of the street at the same time.

To date, there has been no indication that anyone has been apprehended.

It has been pointed out that groups hang around in front of town hall - but when approached they say they have just called their parents from the outside line there.

Several merchants, in complaining to the Townsman this week, urged that an editorial campaign be started in an effort to curb the damage now taking place, and to determine if possible why some of those responsible can not be caught and punished.

TIME, MONEY SAVER - This is the stump chipper, purchased with the authority of the town meeting, for $1,975. According to Tree Supt. Philip Busby, the machine has now paid for itself based on the commercial charge for removal of stumps. Moreover, the machine takes out the stump so fast that many more can be handled in a day. Busby said the stump shown here can be removed in an hour. Two or three men used to take hours to dig around the stump, then use chain saws to remove it. Operating the equipment are John Fitzgerald and Paul Fischer. The high-speed wheel at the rear of the machine does the cutting, and is adjusted for depth of cut via hydraulic controls.

Rafton Wants Simple Plan

Former Land Acquisition Committee chairman Harold O. Rafton made a strong plea Monday night to have acquisition proceedings simplified.

He suggested to the Selectmen that one board, checking on the Land Committee, will be sufficient. Now, he noted, there are two or three sources of approval required, before action can be taken.

The Land Committee, he explained, gets its appraisals from the assessors. These figures, when submitted to the various boards, are once again checked against the assessors' records. Thus several boards consult the same source, all checking on the same items. One can do this sufficiently, Rafton felt.

He also pointed to the possibility of virtual veto resulting from one board's disagreement with all the other boards. He thought this could happen, thus bringing to a halt some important procedure.

Chairman Russell G. Doyle smilingly told Mr. Rafton his ideas would receive consideration.

Advice On A Safe Holiday

The Christmas season can be healthy, as well as happy and holy. To observe a few simple rules, Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, Commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, suggests these:

1. Relax in your shopping. 2. Eat to your regular eating habits. 3. Plan out safe decorations. 4. Avoid weather. Choose toys thoughtfully. 5. Let discretion be the keynote of your eating and drinking. 6. Avoid the popularity of the "office party." 7. Is a good sign of a more sensible attitude toward holiday celebrations. When vision is clear, sugar plums dance in your head, it's not their anticipation, not in their decoration.

Decorations can be Christmas without being dangerous. The electric light bulb is not the symbol of the feast and Christmas spirit is not measured in watts, so avoid overloading the circuits. If you have a metallic tree, spotlight or floodlight instead of string lights with lights. For a real tree, use a bucket filled with wet sawdust or a container with water as the base and be sure the tree is firmly supported. Wait till Christmas Eve to put it up. In a heated house, the tree dries out and becomes a definite hazard. The Christmas candle is traditional but it's also singular. If you light one every night of the month, just light one - and leave it.

Thanks to Bing Crosby, dreaming of a white Christmas has become as American as the eagle, the flag, and home and mother. But the wise adult, face to face with reality, not the dream, confine himself to nostalgia and lets teenager or a machine do the snow removal jobs. A little shoveling goes a long way and produces terrific strain on the heart, particularly in people who ordinarily do no heavy work.

In choosing toys, let the age of the child be your primary consideration. The tag, label or instruction sheet usually indicates the appropriate age group. For the baby-to-mouth age, up to two years, the baby's fist is a good criterion for size; nothing smaller and nothing too much larger. Why? Fun is a toy you can't hold? Examine the eyes of stuffed animals to make sure they're firmly glued. Watch for toys covered with poisonous lead-based paint. Choose washable things, of non-breakable materials. Avoid the highly flammable celluloid.

Two to three years is the exploratory age. Run your hand over edges of toys with sharp-pointed sides. Marbles, beads and flammable items are hazardous, as are cap guns with firing chambers exposed.

At three to four years, children pretend. Avoid heavy or electric playthings. Choose tea sets and other toy household equipment that will not break and leave sharp edges. These are the years for dress-up, for cowboy outfits and uniforms and firemen and such.

The creative age is four to six.

Advice On A Safe Holiday

The Christmas season can be healthy, as well as happy and holy,
if you observe a few simple rules.
Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, Commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, suggests these:

Be relaxed in your shopping.
Stick to your regular eating habits.
Plan out safe decorations. Accept the weather. Choose toys thoughtfully.

Let discretion be the keynote of your eating and drinking. The fast waning popularity of the "office party" is a good sign of a more sensible attitude toward holiday celebrations. When visions of sugar plums dance in your head, be sure it's anticipation, not indignation.

Decorations can be Christmasy without being dangerous. The electric light bulb is not the symbol of the feast and Christmas spirit is not measured in watts, so avoid overloading the circuits. If you have a metallic tree, spotlight it with floodlight instead of string-ing it with lights. For a real tree, use a bucket filled with wet sand or a container with water as a base and be sure the tree is firmly supported. Wait till Christmas Eve to put it up. In a heated house it dries out and becomes a definite hazard. The Christmas candle is traditional but it's also singular.
If you light one every night till Twelfth Night, just light one - and watch it.

Thanks to Bing Crosby, dreaming of a white Christmas has become as American as the eagle, the flag, and home and mother. But the wise adult, face to face with reality, not the dream, confines himself to nostalgia and lets a teenager or a machine do the snow removal jobs. A little shoveling goes a long way and produces a terrible strain on the heart, particularly in people who ordinarily do no heavy work.

In choosing toys, let the age of the child be your primary consideration. The tag, label or instruction sheet usually indicates the appropriate age group. For the hand-to-mouth age, up to two years, the baby's fist is a good criterion for size; nothing smaller and nothing too much larger. What fun is a toy you can't hold? Examine the eyes of stuffed animals to make sure they're firmly in place. Watch for toys covered with poisonous lead-based paint.
Choose washable things, of non-breakable materials. Avoid like the plague the highly flammable celluloid.

Two to three years is the exploratory age. Run your hand over edges of toys with sharp-pointed axes. Marbles, beads and flammable items are hazardous, as are cap guns with firing chambers pretend. Avoid heavy or electrical

BASEMENT CENTER - The basement of the town hall now provides a room for Civil Defense communications. The area has been fixed up by Custodian George Campbell and Ralph Sharpe. men's formal action calls for an immediate report, followed very possibly by eminent domain proceedings.

The site approved by both boards, and the land committee too, includes about 30 acres. Access to it can be gained from Sunset Rock rd., from Ballardvale rd. and from South Main st. The land also abuts Alderbrook rd.

The decision to acquire this parcel came at a joint meeting of the boards, attended as well by Harold Rafton, resigned chairman of the land committee.

Mr. Rafton recalled that his committee had approved the Barnard site June 19, 1962, in a letter to town manager Thomas E. Duff.

The land is not the first choice of the School Committee, which originally asked for a site on the easterly side of South Main st., which would have included an 11-acre tract owned by the town. The Selectmen had not acted favorably on the first suggestion, following a walk across the area, and the matter rested without any action being taken, until Monday night.

However, the School Committee's request for two sites in West Andover went without action, as the Committee was told to come back with specific land in mind. The Selectmen, rather than acting Monday on a general area, wished to have the School Committee pinpoint the exact location.

Request May Affect Another

It is possible that the town's request towards Urban Renewal will have a drastic effect on the appeal for accelerated work funds from the government.

Although different officials pass on the town's requests, the same agency actually controls Urban Renewal and the accelerated program.

Local observers have commented that the government is unlikely to approve funds for a community which it knows is turning back on other funds, because it doesn't want to do business with the government.

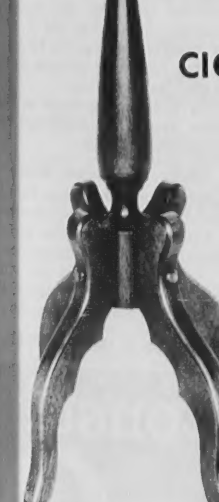

Girls To Help At Hospital

In addition to its many functions, Andover High Junior Red Cross initiated an ambitious project. Members of the student body are participating in a week-long project to the Bedford Veterans Administration Hospital.

Approximately 14 girls have indicated a willingness to work on the project, and in October, under the direction of Mrs. David Foster, Mrs. Winthrop Newcomb, and Mrs. Winthrop Newcomb, they will be sent to Bedford and visit the hospital. During the interim, the girls' parents were notified by the hospital and parental approval for this project was gained.

In addition to its many functions, the Andover High Junior Red Cross initiated an ambitious project, by members of the student body participating in a weekly collection to the Bedford Veterans' Administration Hospital.

Approximately 14 girls have initiated a willingness to work on the project, and in October, under the direction of Mrs. David Fox, Mrs. Winthrop Newcomb, and Mrs. Bedford visited the hospital, educational, physical, and occupational therapy areas of the hospital. Thursday, Dec. 6, approximately 12 girls once again went to the hospital to receive final orientation before they are assigned specific duties. These duties will consist of laboratory work, wheeling of patients, helping to serve dinners, and, in general, lending a supporting hand wherever help is needed.

Arrangements for the hospital visits are being made by Miss Irene Libby, executive director of the Andover Red Cross, Mrs. David Fox, Mrs. Ruth Newman at the Bedford Hospital, and John Boyle at the Andover High School.

include a banquet hall and rooms.

Architects plans for the structure have not been submitted, however, and the Appeals Board requires that plans be submitted to the Board for approval.

Other restrictions include: The main building must be back at least 100 feet from the street.

There may be no outdoor speakers, no signs other than giving the building's name, a minimum of outdoor lighting based on the chief of police's decision as to how much light is needed for safe driving and parking cars.

No outside dances, picnics, or similar activities may be held outdoors after dark.

Unless the plans for hall, driveway, parking lot are presented to the Board within one year, the permit will be void.

As soon as the property on Osgood st. is actually purchased, the Knights' permit for the lot will be void.

In its decision, the Board of Appeals noted that the K of C has been in Andover for 66 years and that some 400 men are now the membership rolls.

The existing facilities on the Office ave. are insufficient, the decision pointed out.

New Way To Measure Distance

An electronic "crossbow" that fires a 20-foot lance of light to measure distances to targets in space has been developed.

Engineers of Raytheon Company's Missile & Space Division reported a highly accurate laser rangefinder. The new system may help solve critical ranging problems entailed in safe rendezvous of satellites and other space vehicles.

On the battlefield the device fires non-lethal spears of laser light which give target distance data for pinpoint shelling of the enemy.

Lightweight and portable, the laser rangefinder makes use of pin-thin beams produced by lasers and the principles of radar measurement.

In use, a 20-foot long spear of light is fired from one of the ranger's twin-barrel lenses. With the speed of light (186,000 miles per second), the light-lance zips to a distant target and reflects back. A photo-multiplier tube and miniature computer pair up to calculate instantly the time it takes for the beam's round trip. Automatic computing of elapsed time against the known speed of light gives quick and accurate distance measurement.

In long-range tests conducted by scientist Howard Glenn at the division's Santa Barbara, Cal., operation accuracy was within five feet of actual distances. The device will be produced at Santa Barbara. The ranger's accuracy remains the same despite increasing distance from targets. Accuracy is dependent only on the length of the spear of light fired from the transmitter barrel.

Key to this precision is a technique which cuts the beam segment down to, at present, only 20 feet in length. Beams from commercially available lasers are thousands of feet long. To chop the light beam, a special modulating device reacts in 20 billionths of a second.

The ranger's two 20-inch barrels, measuring devices and power supply, weigh less than 30 pounds. For field use, it can be mounted on a rifle stock with the heaviest portion, the power supply, carried in belt or back-packs. Thus, an infantryman could determine trajectory to direct mortar and cannon fire by aiming the ranger as he would his carbine. A telescopic gun sight aids in zeroing in on targets. Since the light beam fired from the new ranger is so short, accuracy of a tripod is not required.

Advantages of the laser ranger, this means objects very close to one another can be picked out and their distances measured separately.

of the graduating class from teachers' colleges. And Member William Doherty noted that there's no point in raising the minimum wage, if there is no real desire to attract the best of the graduates by paying top minimum wages. He preferred to put the money in the middle of the schedule, where it would prove attractive to experienced teachers, and those who have been in the system for a while.

V.A. Explains Legal "Orphans"

One of five major misunderstandings - or a combination of them - seems to keep eligible children of deceased servicemen from applying for the educational privileges granted them by Congress, according to William F. Connors, manager of VA's Boston office.

The fact that one parent still lives makes some children believe they do not qualify as "orphans". For this benefit, an "orphan" is a child whose veteran-parent is dead as the result of a wound, accident or illness, attributable to service in the Armed Forces.

The fact that the dead parent had no wartime service makes others believe they are ineligible. If the veteran-parent's death resulted from the performance of duty or from extra-hazardous service during peacetime, the child

The fact that their living parent, usually their mother, has remarried and their step-father has legally adopted them, makes some children believe they are ineligible. The marriage of the living parent and the subsequent adoption does not affect the eligibility of the children.

The fact that many children do not wish, nor are prepared, for training that will help them earn a living.

VA officials will be glad to explain the Orphans Educational Program in detail to children or parents at any time.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

New Plan May Work

We greeted the decision of the School Committee to abandon its merit program with mixed feelings.

There is much to recommend a "merit" program in its true sense; there is no excuse for having a merit program that serves as an excuse to give out salary increases.

A true merit program would recognize teachers of exceptional ability. And we must accept the fact that not every teacher has exceptional ability — without implying, either, that a lack of exceptional ability is necessarily bad. If one measures the exceptional, it must be based on an average.

School Committee member John S. Sullivan, urging retention of merit, commented "I can't accept the idea that professional people can't work in such a program, where ability is rewarded".

Member Milton J. Meyers, formerly a strong proponent of the committee's merit system, asked that it be shelved. His reasons: it is not workable; a good idea, but not practical.

Inherent in Mr. Sullivan's comments was the idea that improvements can be made in the plan as it goes along, making it more workable.

Dr. Meyers implied that the plan can't be improved enough, at least in his judgment, to permit retention at this time.

Either of these arguments can be supported.

In one, a struggle towards a goal continues, trying to perfect a system at the same time.

In the other, there is recognition that the existing system doesn't work, and that improvements can't be worked out immediately.

School Committee member Vincent P. Davey, supporting the move to throw out the merit plan, made this comment: "I feel we would be helping all the teachers rather than recognizing the few".

This is, in our mind, the weakest of the arguments. Because the merit plan never was devised as a tool to help teachers specially. It was a plan worked out to help the town improve its faculty by attracting teachers who would respond to a merit-type appeal. Teachers would be helped, of course, to the extent that the extraordinary teacher would get more money. But it was not our impression that the plan was designed primarily to help the teachers — more important, it was designed to help our children.

All in all, we have to agree that the first step of the merit schedule — this is the only step ever put into effect — became a way of getting a raise. To this extent, the merit plan failed to work. Instead of rewarding exceptional teachers, it gave the appearance of punishing a handful of less-than-average teachers.

Perhaps an improved plan can be submitted at a later time — we certainly hope this will be done.

Not On Your Life

Many years ago, newspapers were fond of quoting a presidential directive "Clear it with Sidney . . ." — a phrase attributed to President Roosevelt.

Some years later, the Townsman commented that the phrase could possibly be applicable here. This newspaper thought then that it would be insufferable to have to "clear" ordinary news coverage with any public official. Newspapers do not need personal permission to cover the news.

The idea is just as repugnant now, even though the directive might be: "Clear it with Tom".

Keep The Committee

Whenever someone mentions the Sanborn School, it is apt to be coupled with the comment that this is a good school, and that the building committee sure did a good job.

We agree.

And because they did a good job, let's keep the committee intact. At least, if we can not persuade all its members to continue their service to the town, let's keep as many as possible.

The town has, over the years, made what we believe is a mistake — each new building has brought with it a new committee. The appointees naturally have studied the special problems associated with municipal construction, and have served until that specific building was completed.

Then they were discharged from service — just at the time when their knowledge of these matters was becoming most valuable.

It makes a lot of sense to maintain a permanent building committee, staffed by volunteers as at present — but volunteers with experience in municipal construction, whether it be schools or other town facilities.

The citizens would feel much more comfortable about new construction, knowing that the responsible building committee has a background of experience in this specific field.

No Foresight

For a town where foresight and planning seem to be first in everyone's vocabulary, we are astonished at the plans for the new town hall.

And we might quickly note here that another pet word "Colonial" seems also to have taken a back seat here. Look at the architect's idea of the building, published in the Townsman Nov. 21, to see what we mean.

But whatever the name for the type of architecture shown in the drawing, the main problem remains the alarming lack of "crystal ball" planning.

Here we have plans for a new building that has to remain functional for many years. We also know, by hard experience, that most statistical forecasts for the future are low, and have been exceeded far and beyond what the experts anticipate.

Every time we build a school, we hope it will be large enough by the day it opens; we're fortunate if the building serves its intended capacity for a few years.

Now we have an opportunity to build a municipal structure for the future. Let's not plan the major offices for the present; let's demonstrate our ability to learn from past errors, by planning for future needs.

We hope another look will be taken at the proposed plans. And if there are no changes, to make them fit the needs of the next generation, then it's a shameful waste of funds to go forward with construction.

Parties For Children

Each group of Little League teners has a party at Christmas time. The Robins group had theirs Wednesday, the Cardinals will have theirs this coming Wednesday, Dec. 19 and the Ballardvale teners will have theirs Thursday, Dec. 20. All mothers plan to remain with the children for these parties, at which time the children go through many of their own activities as an example of their participation in the group. Light refreshments are enjoyed by all.

Christmas Story Hours

There will be a special story hour for all boys and girls at the Ballardvale branch room Monday, Dec. 17 from 4 p.m. to 4:45 p.m. Among the stories to be told will be "Why The Chimes Rang", "The Littlest Angel", a story told with pictures, and "The Voyage of The Wee Red Cap."

Thursday afternoon, Dec. 13 the same program will be shown at the Memorial Hall Library for Andover children. There are carols planned for this story hour. Parents should allow until about 4:15 p.m. for the program.

Who's He?

A valuable new reference volume "Contemporary Authors" has been added to the Memorial Hall Library. It provides biographical information on current authors and writers.

The new service, which is published quarterly, contains more than 1,500 biographies of American and foreign authors in each issue. Each entry includes personal and family data, educational and professional background, the author's books, literary activities and other data.

This new reference tool will be especially valuable in providing information on first-time authors and on those who are little known. The major living authors are neglected, the editors say, and will not be overlooked so long as they are of current interest. "Contemporary Authors" places stress on providing information about the author of a first novel, the essayist or the academician who may be coming into prominence. However, an author must be "published" writer, with his work appearing by a reputable publisher other than a vanity press. Suggestions for this series are drawn from reviews, catalogs and bibliographies, and include current American and selected foreign authors of fiction, juvenile books, both fiction and non-fiction, poetry, texts outside the physical and biological sciences and technology, but including the social sciences and general non-fiction. Each of the quarterly volumes will contain entirely new listings and will cumulate preceding volumes. A cumulative index will be provided later.

Data on individual authors is provided in nearly every case for the individuals concerned, through the use of questionnaires and personal correspondence. The outline for each person included, covers personal data, career, writing works in progress. Some biographies include "sidelights", as planned to provide dimension to listings, and, although not every person has supplied this, editors feel that this section will be of unique interest, and will even more effective in future issues.

Holiday Changes

Readers are asked to note that the library will be open only from 10 a.m. to 1 on the Mondays before the holidays, and that the branch room will be open only from 2-4 p.m. on those days. Both will be closed for the holidays.

Shortly, the members of both chapters plan to hold a combined Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Louis Petersen. Mrs. Ian Sanderson and Mrs. John McCarthy will serve as co-chairmen of this social event. Secret Pals will be revealed at this party.

Much time is also being spent these days working on preparations for the Mardi Gras Ball. Mrs. Luis Salazar is chairman of this gala affair which will be held in February to benefit the Heart Fund. Much interest has been aroused about the program book being offered for the first time. Mrs. George Farrell and Mrs. George Ainscow are handling the arrangements for this book.

How did the School Committee members state their position on merit, during last week's discussion, prior to throwing out the plan: School Committee Chairman Robert McIntyre, himself a school

He also noted that the exceptional teacher, on merit, might have approached the same salary level as administrators - but this couldn't happen without the plan. McIntyre saw many benefits in this possibility, because it would help keep the best teachers in the classrooms, instead of finding them changing over to administrative posts.

Veteran School Committee member William Doherty said little during the discussion, but cast an emphatic "no" when given the opportunity to break a two-two vote on retaining the plan.

Member Vincent P. Davey expressed his concern that the other members mention of exceptional teachers indicates that there are teachers in the system doing less than their best. He noted that there are three years, before tenure, during which the teachers can be weeded out, and suggested that it would be short-changing the students who are taught by the less-than-exceptional teachers.

He also noted that "we are helping all of the teachers rather than recognizing the few" by eliminating merit and putting the $500 payment into the salary schedule. He proposed that some time it may be returned, when the basic schedule is better.

Member Milton J. Meyers recorded his opposition early in the discussion, not because he doesn't like the plan, but because he believes it can not be administered properly.

He said he still favors the theory, but has come to the conclusion that administration is less than it should be, thus preventing the merit plan from functioning as he believed it would.

Member John S. Sullivan commented, in supporting merit, that changes certainly would be made to improve the plan - but he believed that it should be made while such alterations are made.

He expressed concern that teachers should not be willing to work with such a plan.

Supt. of Schools Edward E. son first told the Committee he would not be opposed to taining it in the schedule - to other words, abandoning merit keeping the pay.

But when Mr. Sullivan was to know whether the superintendent believed the plan could be administered properly, Mr. son replied: "What do you I'd say to that?"

He went on to say that administrators of the system can handle the details of evaluation and recommendation under the plan.

Erickson also commented that the original plans called for merit steps - each harder to attain. The first step, he felt, was to be relatively easy, but as the teacher to reach, but as the steps would be quite difficult.

Writing Laboratory Incentive A

Anthony J. Carpenito
A stimulus to independent work in an unsupervised classroom and as an adjunct to its composition classes, a Writing Laboratory has been instituted at the Andover Junior High School.

Students of intensive composition are allowed to use the facilities of the Writing Laboratory to develop the skills learned in class. Dictionaries, Thesauruses, and various reference materials and aids to implement the skills are made available.

Students are permitted the opportunity for use of solitary periods of reflection and evaluation of their work they have completed. They are also given an opportunity to reflect upon, evaluate and consider papers written by students in the intensive composition classes. Students may use the Writing Laboratory to plan and write papers for courses and school work.

Students of the Writing Laboratory are given the opportunity to work in their study periods to work on their assignments. All students who have demonstrated a capacity to assume responsibility of working in an unsupervised classroom have been given a pass which excuses them from their study to use the Writing Laboratory. The student, himself, decides when and how often he wishes to make use of its facilities.

Through the establishment of the Writing Laboratory, it is hoped that students will not only develop writing skills but will begin to assume a sense of responsibility for individual work in an unsupervised situation.

In the short time the writing laboratory has been operating, encouraging signs have been seen. Students have been enthusiastic in their desire to give time to written assignments. They have welcomed the opportunity at working in an unsupervised situation and are giving their ability to work independently.

Most interest in writing, not only for the work but for creative expression, is increasing. Most impressive, however, students are beginning to realize the vital importance of good writing in putting forth their thoughts, ideas and knowledge, especially as related to school work.

As the Christmas season approaches, many people have a desire to decorate their homes with evergreens.

This is an old, old custom - dating the Christmas era by many centuries. Originally, evergreens were used to brighten the celebration of the winter Solstice or shortest day of the year.

The handiest source of evergreen plant material for most customers is right in their own yards or grounds. Sufficient evergreens may be obtained by careful and judicious pruning which will do little permanent injury to the plants and in some instances will do considerable good.

In pruning any plants for Christmas greens, keep the health and shape of the plants uppermost in your mind. The greens for decoration are only a by-product of the pruning process. Remove only as much as will improve the shape and vigor of the plant.

Many of the cone-bearing evergreens cannot develop new shoots from old wood. Cut back to live side branches only. This is true of the pines, spruces and firs.

Tews, junipers and hemlocks are very tolerant of severe pruning. They can develop new branches from old wood and rapidly in where branches are removed. Still, care should be taken to avoid cutting into the main stem of the plant.

For more information on the proper pruning of evergreens, contact the Andover Junior High School Writing Laboratory.

not to make holes in the plants. The removal of branch-tips often will cause the side branches to make greater growth and produce a denser, better plant.

Arborvitae and false-cypress will tolerate shearing of their foliage, but care should be taken not to remove so much of the green growth as to make holes in the rather thin green covering. The foliage is borne near the tips of the branches.

Some broad-leaved evergreens can be pruned for Christmas greens. Hollies, box-woods, andromeda and laurel all make rather rapid growth to replace any branches removed. Attempt to take only those twigs or branches that will improve the shape of the plant or keep it within a given space in the garden. Enjoy the Christmas greens but save the plants to enjoy in the future.

Town Collects Second Payment

Persistence in following a legal case against suppliers of asphalt has resulted in another payment to the town, this time in the amount of $794.84.

The town earlier received $3,010, and will receive $655.31 from another firm.

The receipts are returns on overpayments, and grow out of a court case involving bid collusion. The town counsel and a Boston lawyer have been collaborating on the subject. The Boston lawyer has handled the suits for several communities, all of which seek to get back funds.

Planning Board Studies Rules

The Planning Board is reconsidering its proposed regulations, following a hearing Monday night.
Various contractors discussed the regulations with the Planning Board, and suggested that some of the inspections proposed in the rules are duplications.
The Planning Board proposes that inspections be carried out in all subdivisions, at various stages of construction. This, the Board believes, will assure the town that the proper fill is being used, that sufficient quantities of gravel are put into road beds, and that other parts of the construction are followed to the letter of the regulations.

Some of the contractors felt that the highway superintendent and the water-sewer superintendent could carry out the inspections, without involving the town engineer.
Former Building Inspector Ernest N. Hall also suggested that inspected inspections are worth less than those which are conducted by the developers.

Although the proposed inspections take up much of the regulations, the Board also suggests that new, written requirements be adopted concerning off-site water and sewer installations.

One section, on water, says that the developer may be required to extend or replace water mains in existing streets, at the time his development is proposed. If the developer extends or replaces the water main, he may propose an article at the next annual town meeting, seeking reimbursement for the cost. This will be entirely at the will of the voters, however.

On sewer projects, the developer may be directed to bring the sewer up to, and into, his development, if the Board believes this to be beneficial.

Again, the developer may petition town meeting for reimbursement, but this is not guaranteed.

In both cases - water and sewer
- the developer will be expected to put in pipe as directed by the master plans for these municipal facilities, as prepared by Camp, Dresser and McKee.

One additional item, not exactly under the control of the Planning Board, has been added to the regulations - a list of procedures to be followed to get streets accepted.

The Board felt that providing this list, even though street acceptances are a Selectmen's responsibility, will help prevent future
"I didn't know" excuses, when problems crop up.

NOT ALLOWED TO COVER HYDRANTS

Private contractors - not under contract with the town
- will be breaking the law if they pile snow on top of hydrants this year.

Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton has called attention to a change in the law, which now provides a $100 fine for those covering hydrants as they clear away the snow.
Exempt are town employees or contractors working for the town in plowing the streets.

★ The $27 million National Road Test has been the most important and scientific study ever made of concrete and asphalt pavements. Sponsored by the American Association of State Highway Officials, it reflects the dedication of highway engineers to building even finer streets and highways.

The test findings will directly benefit you. They will mean pavements that will give better rideability and longer lasting qualities.

For the test, conducted near Ottawa, Illinois, sections of concrete and asphalt in various thicknesses were laid in 5 loops and subjected to continuous truck traffic for two years.

Final test results are now documented in six detailed reports prepared by the Highway Research Board. To help make these results more readily useful to everyone who designs, builds or maintains your streets and highways, the Portland Cement Association is summarizing and interpreting data from these reports.

This service is being provided to highway engineers, public officials and others as an aid in the application of Road Test findings in planning and building pavements that will serve you better.

Girl Scouts Are Working On Project

Girl Scout Troop 32, West Parish Church, meets every Monday afternoon under the Leadership of Mrs. Edward Warwick.

For the past several weeks they been going to St. Annes Orphanage in Methuen, where they work and enjoy recreation with the youth at the Orphanage.

The members of Troop 32 are all eighth graders in Junior High School, and they find this a most interesting project.

CHRISTMAS 1962 . . . ASSURE yourself and

Duff Seeking Federal Funds For Town Hall Construction

The town is hurrying to request a second allocation of funds from the federal authorities, under the accelerated public works program.

Town manager Thomas E. Duff has instructed Perry, Shaw, Hepburn and Dean, the architects drawing plans for the town hall, fire and police stations, to prepare applications covering those buildings.

He told the Selectmen that a projected cost of $1,500,000 for the three structures will be submitted, with the hope that half of this amount will be provided by the government.

An initial application is still being processed, somewhere between New York and Washington, covering a major sewer project. That job calls for federal grants of well over half-a-million dollars.

Mr. Duff has received word from the U. S. Senators and Congressman that they will keep a watchful eye over the applications, as they get to Washington for consideration.

Commenting on the desirability of receiving the federal funds, Selectman William Stewart again noted that the money comes to the town, the town spends it, without further restrictions. This, he said, is entirely different from Urban Renewal, where he feels that the government will maintain restrictions and controls after agreeing to provide funds.

It is this basic difference that makes him willing to agree to apply for one set of funds, but not the other, he said. Selectman B. Allan Rowland agreed with this thinking.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman: "Speaking as one, the taxpayers of Andover are fortunate indeed to have municipal employees who have the interest of the community at heart, and are willing to express publicly their qualified opinions. I refer specifically to the comments in last week's Townsman regarding the arbitrary allocation of inadequate space and facilities for the proposed Town Hall.

"If nothing else, these department heads have provided an opportunity to rectify situations at a time when such things can be done, not waiting until Town Meeting when the proposed plans would be a foregone conclusion." Irene H. McCarthy

Surveying All Recreation In Town

A survey of all recreational activities in the town is underway — the first step taken by the new Coordinating Council.

Recreation Director Leslie Bartow said the group plans to meet early in January, to go over the results of the survey. This step was agreed upon by members of the Council, as a pre-requisite to forming plans for community recreation activities.

Among those actively working on the Council are James Butler, Mrs. R. Milton Cole, Mrs. Thomas J. Dye, Mrs. Michael Gravalles, William Floyd, Frank Hayden, Louis Holtsma, Gaspar Jako,
